

Dr. Dechenla Tshering Bhutia
MD, MPH

Professor and Head
Dept. of Community Medicine
Sikkim Manipal Institute of Medical Sciences
Gangtok, Sikkim
India

Dr. Dechenla Tshering Bhutia is Professor and Head of Dept. of Community Medicine at Sikkim Manipal Institute of Medical Sciences in Sikkim, India. She holds an MD degree in Community Medicine and obtained an MPH degree from Royal Tropical Institute, Amsterdam under the Netherlands Fellowship Program. A passionate teacher, with an experience of more than 16 years, she has been involved in medical teaching and guiding postgraduates and Ph.D. scholar research projects. She has undergone the "Advanced course in Medical Education" under the aegis of Medical Council of India. She nurtures a keen interest in Maternal and Child Health with a particular focus on nutritional interventions to improve the health of mother and children. She has authored book chapter titled "Critical appraisal of Vitamin A supplementation program in India". Her advocacy measures have led her to present the issue in various National and International platforms. She has served as an ICDS State consultant under Ministry of Women and Child Development, India from 2011 to 2016. She was a speaker at Japan International Cooperation Agency, Japan and panel speaker at the 9th General Assembly of the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness at Hyderabad, India in association with Sight & Life, Switzerland. She is involved in the capacity of resource trainer for Medical officers and other cadres of health under the State Health and Family welfare department, Sikkim for IDSP and NVBDCP. She has undergone training in Universal Health coverage and SDG under the aegis of Netherlands Fellowship program. She is involved in various Public health research activities and has several National and International publications in indexed journals to her credit.